

Bibliographic Information:

Author: Misiak Roman . Closed solution of static physical properties of a rectangular section of spherical shell.

The study provides a solution that meets either closed system boundary conditions on all edges of the shell. The solution is calculated under the theory of shells and all movements and internal forces in any cross-section can be found. The size of the internal forces complies with the internal and external equilibrium.